

take command

Welcome to your digital command center.

It's essential to take command of every aspect of your operations – no matter where the action is. You need to keep an eye on the table games. You also need to monitor your food and beverage areas. That's why Honeywell's Enterprise NVR and the MAXPRO-Net video management system let you scrutinize every square foot of your facility. And if you really want to be in command, our UltraKey keyboard integrates a joystick and touch-screen LCD for the ultimate control of cameras and displays. Then, tie it all together by combining video and point of sale data using Honeywell's Integrated Data Manager. The time has come to take command. Digitally.
