

substance + style

A good design performs inside and out.

Honeywell's newest True Day/Night cameras incorporate the substance you need with the style you want. With two different designs tailored to look good and work great, our HCD92534 bullet style camera offers sleek, chic lines, and our HD4D is a sturdy, rugged fixed dome. But they don't just look good—they're true performers. For high resolution video—indoors and out—both cameras combine True Day/Night functionality with state-of-the-art Digital Noise Reduction to give you exceptional low light visibility with extremely low picture interference. And if that's not enough, they fit virtually any installation. Now that's a beautiful thing.
